STATE LEGION CHIEF COMING TO CONCLAVE

Commander Coffey To Be Speaker at Tenth District Convention

PARADE BIG EVENT IN SALEM JULY 11

Several Bands and Drum corps Are Expected To Participate

Martin V. Coffey of Middletown, state commander of the American Legion, will be the principal speaker when Charles H. Carey post is host to the Tenth district convention of the Legion in Salem Sunday, July 11.

Atty J. Lee Pickering of Minerva, district commander, has just notified Milton H. Critchfield, commander of the Salem post, of Coffey's acceptance of the invitation.

Several hundred Legionnaires and their wives from the nine counties in the district are expected to be in Salem on that occasion. Many of them will arrive Saturday, July 10.

The convention committee, headed by John C. Litty and Atty Charles G. McCorkhill, co-chairmen, met in the Legion home last night, to further plans for the two-day event. Reports indicated that the parade, scheduled for 4 p. m. Sunday, will develop into one of considerable size.

Several Bands Coming
Two drum corps and four or five bands are expected to participate, and several other units will be invited. R. L. Hutcheson, chairman of the parade committee, reported he has assurance that the Alliance Legion drum corps, and the Legion and Junior Legion bands of Canton will be here and that the Massillon drum corps also may come for the parade.

High school, Fairmount Children's Home and the Salem Old Timers bands are to be invited and there is a possibility that Steubenville Legionnaires will be accompanied by their drum corps. Lisbon is preparing to bring its High School Victory corps and the county Forty and Eight may bring its box car, which has been entered in several national conventions. Salem Civilian Defense council units will be asked to participate and an effort is being made to have a few floats entered.

The parade, scheduled to start at 4 p. m. Sunday, will be the concluding event of the convention and will wind up at Reilly field, where Commander Coffey will speak. In the event of rain, the address will be given in the Memorial building. Election of district officer, to be held.

Once Hungry Steel Mills No Longer Buying Scrap

YOUNGSTOWN, June 17.—The scrap iron and steel situation which was so critical a year ago that steel furnaces were closing down, has changed so that steel mills today are refusing to buy any more of ordinary scrap.

This was revealed here when two defense groups called off proposed scrap drives with the report that "steel mills have so much scrap on hand scrap dealers wouldn't buy anything we collected."

Dealers say the district has been so thoroughly culled that only "trash" remains. At the same time, they said, mills have so much scrap that they refuse to buy material which they would have been fighting for a year ago.

The collection, amounting to $18,283.92, exceeded the corresponding collection of 731,972.07 last year, and the September collection last year which amounted to $667,237.68, a fact attributed by Dawson to economic conditions and the practice of many taxpayers of paying the entire year's assessment at the time of the February collection.

JAPS HOARDED FOOD CACHES

Dies Committee Hears Testimony of Former Relocation Center Aid

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, June 17.—Testimony of secret hoards of food stocks, some of which he said he believed had been traded by Japanese for whisky and chickens, was given a Dies congressional subcommittee by a former employee of the Heart Mountain relocation center in Wyoming.

Earl A. Best, a wounded veteran of Dunkerque, told the committee yesterday he was sent to Heart Mountain last December as an associate steward after having served for a time as chief steward at the Poston, Ariz., relocation center. During a month-long inventory of food at the Heart Mountain camp, Best said, he found 36 of the center's 42 kitchens and supplies hidden in their attics.

In one of them, he declared, a Japanese cook showed him secret pantries reached by sliding doors in the kitchen walls, one of them about five by 15 feet in size and piled to the ceiling with foodstuffs. In another mess hall the Japanese had built a stage and the space beneath it was packed with canned goods, Best said. He notified the project director about the secret store rooms, he added, but no action was taken.

"At one time while I was there, there were 10,000 gallons of mayonnaise, when they were using only 600 gallons a month," Best testified. "Much of this supply had gone back to oil."

"There was a 65-month supply of corn meal. There was a five-year supply of canned tomatoes, at the rate they were using them, but on the ration point system there was enough for eight years."

"On one occasion there were 600 or 700 pounds of lard in each kitchen. Then 42 steel drums of lard arrived, each weighing 300 pounds. There was no place to put it, so I was instructed to send it on to the already amply supplied kitchens. The Japs cooks would make large batches of doughnuts, use the lard once and then throw it away."

Nazis Lost 100 Planes In Recent Allied Raid

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today that 85, possibly 105, German fighter planes were destroyed by American and British fliers raiding Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven last Friday.

In those raids, in which he asserted heavy damage was caused to enemy industrial areas, the secretary added that eight Flying Fortresses were lost. Preliminary reports had placed the Nazi air losses at 54 craft.

Stimson also reported that the capture of Pantelleria, Lampedusa and two other small Mediterranean islands cost "only about 40 airmen and a few planes." He said "substantial numbers" of Axis prisoners were taken — at Pantelleria they totaled 11,135 and at Lampedusa "between 4,000 and 5,000."

Only 100 Donors Are Registered; 300 More Sought

Worried lest the American Red Cross mobile blood donor unit will be unable to make its scheduled visit to Salem Monday and Tuesday due to an insufficient number of donors, the Salem Red Cross Chapter today renewed its appeal for patriotic citizens to give a pint of blood for conversion into blood plasma.

Only one fourth of the 400 donors needed for the two days had been signed by this morning, Mrs. L. D. Cesna committee chairman, announced. "The urgent need of more donor applicants is apparent," she said.

Registration must be completed by Friday night to permit mailing of appointment cards. Donors may register by telephoning 4500, the blood donor office from 1 to 9 p. m. Registrants are asked not to call the Red Cross chapter office.

The unit will establish donation headquarters at the Presbyterian church Monday and Tuesday.

Americans fighting throughout the world can be given a new chance for life with the plasma from blood donated here, Red Cross officials are pointing out.

The war is being fought on many fronts and the need for life-saving plasma increases with each victory since more men are wounded.

AREAS IN OHIO HIT BY STORM

Cleveland Suffers Most From Cloudburst; Damage Widespread

(By Associated Press)
Wind-lashed cloudbursts, accompanied by lightning, wrought severe damage in scattered sections of Ohio last night.

The worst destruction was reported in Cleveland where an electrical storm tied up rail and bus traffic, plunged suburban Fairview village and Garfield Heights into darkness for several hours and flooded streets and basements.

Two bridges were closed by wash-out and the Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate railroad lines reported traffic impeded as the downpour flooded their yards.

Lightning struck a street car and bus but no passengers were hurt. The heavy rainfall caused a retaining wall at Benedictine High school to collapse crushing garages housing eight automobiles and starting a fire in a six family apartment house. Battalion Chief Clarence E. Ryan said the blaze caused $4500 worth of damage.

Damage Widespread
Pennsylvania railroad officials said 20 inches of water covered the main tracks in the road's yard at E. 93rd st. and Kinsman road blocking traffic for more than two hours. Several tracks were washed out and the roundhouse flooded.

Nickel Plate schedules fell an hour behind when water interfered with the block signal system.

Streets in the Kinsman road area were turned into torrents as sewers were unable to carry away the runoff. Water gushed up through manholes and trapped motorists in their cars.

Widespread damage from rain, wind and lightning also was reported in Zanesville, Newark and Cincinnati.

More than 100 trees were uprooted at Zanesville, several of them damaging buildings in falling.

A large oak tree crashed against a two-story double house and moved it several inches. A branch ripped through the roof of the Keck funeral home and falling trees damaged the roof of the dance hall and another building at Maxahalla park, west of Zanesville.

Heavy rain flooded streets and cellars in South Newark. Water a foot deep backed up in the basement of Newark City hospital. Four homes were struck by lightning there, but no one was hurt.

A downpour flooded streets and delayed traffic in Cincinnati. Lightning struck a transformer at the Eagle-Picher Lead Co., causing an explosion which shattered a door and several windows.

U. S. SCORES HEAVILY IN AIR BATTLE

Navy Describes Encounter As One of Pacific's Greatest Air Duels

SIX UNITED STATES PLANES SHOT DOWN

Enemy Apparently Trying To Disrupt U. S. Offensive Maneuvers

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 17.—In one of the great air battles of the Pacific, American planes shot down 77 Japanese aircraft over Guadalcanal island Wednesday, while losing six of their own number, the Navy announced today.

Never before had the enemy's air losses in the Guadalcanal area been so heavy. The 77 total was almost exactly twice that of the Japanese losses last April 7 when 39 enemy craft were destroyed during a single raid.

The make-up of the enemy force in the Wednesday battle suggested that the Japanese had returned to their earlier tactics of fighters escorting bombers, after their Saturday thrust with fighters alone failed so completely.

It was not clear, however, on the basis of available information why the Japanese should be directing air forces of such considerable size and suffering losses at so great a rate into the Guadalcanal area.

One explanation widely mentioned in speculation here is that the Japanese believe Guadalcanal will play an important role in the next big American push and are trying to disrupt operations there as much as possible, primarily as a defensive measure.

Six Planes Missing
"Navy communiqué No. 415 said: 'South Pacific.'

"A brief report received from the South Pacific reveals that in an air battle over Guadalcanal island on June 16 United States planes shot down 32 Japanese bombers and 45 zero fighters. Six United States planes are missing.

"No further details have been received."

The description of the American planes as "missing" suggested that some of them or at least some of their pilots, might turn up later.

The 13 to 1 score turned in by American combat fliers in the Solomon, who have in the past included Army, Navy, and Marine pilots, was one of the best, possibly the best, ever recorded in a single action.

In the action of April 7 the Japanese attacked transports in the alacanal with 96 planes, including 50 bombers, and while they lost 39, American losses were three ships and seven planes. Only two American pilots failed to return from their crashed craft, however.

The latest raid in the Guadalcanal area prior to Wednesday's action was on last Saturday when the Japanese sent a force of 40 to 50 fighter planes to the vicinity of the Russell islands, American air base territory lying immediately north of Guadalcanal. Their move then appeared to be aimed at winning aerial supremacy by overwhelming American fighter forces and driving them from the skies, thereby laying American ground installations open to a smothering assault. As it turned out, the Japanese had 25 planes definitely shot down and eight probably. American losses were six planes and two pilots.

Turkey and Vichy Break Is Reported

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 17.—An Agence radio broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said today Turkey had broken off diplomatic relations with the Vichy government of France.

Turkey was reported to have recalled her ambassador from the Nazi-dominated French capital.

The Agence radio, which has not always proved strictly accurate in its reports of political developments, did not go into detail. There was no direct confirmation from Ankara or Vichy.

London diplomatic quarters which normally would be informed of any such break could not confirm the report and said they were inclined to doubt it.

HOW NOT TO BOLSTER MORALE

In the language of the fellow who said things were in status quo, a fancy phrase for a mess, the food prospect is in status quo.

The country has waited patiently for signs of some kind of a master plan to deal with the obviously worsening food problem, but what it has received is more reports that the problem is every bit as tough as it is said to be.

The country has waited for the politicians and professors in Washington to shake the star dust out of their hair and start listening to the advice of some of the people who knew what the dirt farmers are up against, but instead there has been a lot of sound and fury signifying nothing.

It waited a long time for the war planners to tumble to the fact that selective service boards and war boom wages might lose the war of industrial production by losing the war of agricultural production, and it isn't sure they understand it yet.

It has waited for something to be done about making farm machinery available where and when it is needed urgently, but what it has been getting is announcements that there will be plenty of machinery available sometime in the future.

In short, while the United States has been waiting for agriculture to be dealt with as a major problem, like production of bombers or ships, it has been confronted at every turn with signs that the government was continuing to approach it either as a deacon on political eggs, or as a matter to be handled through a volunteer army of apple-cheeked adolescents. Perhaps in the future the administration will do better, but so far its handling of food production in wartime has been a clear lesson in how not to bolster morale.

From now on there needs to be less attention to "When do we vote?" and "When do we make over the economic system?" and a lot more attention to "When do we eat?" Before this time a year from now, by the government's own admission, that probably will become the most important question of all. Americans aren't going to starve, but they are going to learn about the importance of farming the hard way.

TRAVEL ADS

When the need for that old standby of escapist literature, the travel ad, becomes acute, there is a reasonable substitute these days in the form of exciting plans for the future. The Greyhound Corp., in announcement well timed for the beginning of vacation season, says it has applied for permission to operate helicopters over existing bus routes covering 60,000 miles of highway.

The announcement comes a short time after Pennsylvania Central Airlines' application for permission to construct aerodromes in the Atlantic as a post-war development. It has special appeal for the millions who have taken the helicopter to heart, but have been stymied in their dreaming by such practical problems as keeping one of the things on the premises. Under the Greyhound plan, hedge-hopping would become a problem in public transportation, to be worked out in terms of public accommodation.

By the rule that anticipation is nine-tenths of the joy of travel, this may be the most pleasant travel season in history.

UNITY BY CONVICTION

While the Supreme court's reversal of a previous decision unholding the constitutionality of the flag salute is concerned less with the problem of unity than the problem of creating an appearance of unity, its reasoning that unity cannot be compelled is unassailable. Nazi Germany may succeed in making a whole nation do its hell Hitler by rote, but no one will argue that Germans have been united by that formality.

Patriotism by personal conviction is as much a part of the American credo as free speech. In the case of the religious sect whose refusal to salute the flag on religious grounds has been a troublesome issue, there is no evidence that refusal to accede in a formality has been injurious to patriotism. Rather, it has been offensive to the patriotic sensibilities of other patriots, which is another matter entirely.

The court's reversal removes from further argument an issue that had created more disunity by far than the original provocation.

FATHER

Some of the wide-eyed astonishment revealed in the presence of Mother's amazing wartime accomplishments this year on the occasion of "her day" is left over for Father on "his day."

Father, even more than Mother, is national manpower. Chances are, he also is eligible for the draft. If not, he is either an actual or potential war worker, entitled to special consideration.

If he is in the armed forces, he is, of course, the symbolic Father of the Year. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of Allied forces in North Africa, has been selected by the national Father's day committee to represent all fighting fathers.

Father also is newly important during wartime as a taxpayer, an air raid warden, and a potential unit in all kinds of organizations and enterprises for winning the war. A little puzzled by so much attention all of a sudden, he almost wishes he could retire to the good old days when Father's day was just an occasion for his family to look at him askance as though it were his fault that they didn't know what to do or say to express their esteem without making commitments that might have repercussions.

The government seems to have plenty of paper for long, slender envelopes with windows in them—and always stuffed with New Deal propaganda.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, June 18

THE LUNAR aspects of this day must be considered as generally adverse. There is much danger of being carried to disagreeable extremes or irregularities of conduct, through treachery. Shun all intrigues and erratic friction or discord with elders, superiors or those in authority, make plans on upright and straightforward lines, and all may turn out satisfactorily.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of curious or peculiar events. The forces and mentality may be chaotic and confused, prompting unwise behavior. This may be largely owing to antagonisms or breaks with those in powerful positions. With regard for the health, proper management of humors or urges for a sane and balanced course of action, all may ultimately be gratifying and inaugurate some unexpected benefits.

A child born on this day may have exceptional talents, and be studious and profound, but certain erratic or confused tendencies may turn its benefactors against it. Supervision of its mental and nervous tension is recommended.

THE WAR TODAY

By MAX HILL

Turkey has picked her winner in the war. There no longer can be any doubt that she has climbed down off the diplomatic fence and decided the United Nations are the best bet.

This probably does not surprise either the Axis or the Allies, but just the same it is a body blow to Hitler, and it exposes one of the soft spots in his vaunted fortress of Europe to attack—the Balkans.

Two years ago Turkey would not have dared treat the Axis with such chilling scorn as Premier Sukru Saracoglu did yesterday. He expressed warm friendship for America, Britain and Russia, and their aims in the war. His remarks concerning Germany were tepid and restrained, to say the least.

It has been evident for some time that we held the whip-hand in Turkey, and that Franz Von Papen has failed utterly and completely in another mission for Hitler. But it was not an openly admitted fact. Now it is.

Turkey hasn't even voiced a technical protest over the closing of the Syrian border, a move which was said by British embassy sources in Ankara to be necessary to shield troop movements.

It is known that both Britain and America have great quantities of war materials and large armies in India, not too far away. Might this be the source of a good part of the offensive power the United Nations seem to be massing in the Near East?

NAIL POLISH ECZEMA

Doctor Discusses Skin Irritations

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE VARIOUS eruptions on the skin of the hands, which are so common in housewives can be divided into five or six classes. The

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

commonest of all—as is likely to be the case in skin eruptions on the hands of anybody—are those due to ringworm infection.

The housewife macerates the skin of her hands in hot, soapy dishwater and makes it an easy field for entrance of the little spores of the ringworm which are scattered around on the arms of chairs, window ledges, in fact, nearly everywhere in our modern civilization.

Another large group are allergic or contact forms of dermatitis. Besides plant contacts, if she has a garden, the housewife may make contact with soaps, cleaning powders, dyes, polishes and many other substances which in about five per cent of people cause a dermatitis.

In this group—not strictly speaking of housewives—is nail polish eczema. This occurs not particularly frequently, but often enough to make it a troublesome condition in those who use nail polish, particularly of the darker and more ornate kinds.

Locations of Eczema
While nail polish eczema usually appears first on the skin around the nail beds and at the ends of the fingers, it may fool everybody for a long time by appearing on the face and eyelids, which the patient touches with her recently polished nails. In order of frequency, after the fingers and eyelids, the location for this eczema may be the neck, chin, cheeks, tips of the ears and the arm pits.

In studying a group of these cases it was found that it was not the dye in the polish which caused the eruption; colorless lacquer produced it almost as often as the colored nail polish. Skin patch tests done on a series of patients with 25 substances used in the manufacture of nail polish showed that a substance called formaldehyde-sulphonamide resin was the only one which gave a positive reaction in the patients and a negative reaction in the control subjects.

The control subjects were those who were not sensitive to polish or lacquer and who did not have an eczema. This causative agent, this resin, is widely used in modern manufacturing. Such familiar household objects as imitation leathers, glass beads, metal jewelry, hairpins, pencils, celluloid playing cards and straw hats may be encased with this resin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
I. M.: I would like some information on fallen or floating kidney. Is it curable? Is it serious?

Answer: A kidney floats when the ligaments that hold it in place become loosened. This happens very often in thin people, who also tend to have dropped stomach and dropped intestines. It seldom causes any trouble, although occasionally there are attacks of pain when the kidney gets twisted. Surgery used to be the favorite form of cure but nowadays most of them respond to corsets, time, and a fattening diet.

Answer: Iritis is an inflammation of the iris of the eye. It is due to an infection of some sort, but in the common form the nature of the infection is unknown. The symptoms are pain and redness and aversion to light. Nearly all cases get well, but recurrences are common.

U. S. Propagandists Map Huge Program

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Details of a gigantic propaganda campaign, ranging from distribution of American drinking cups in Africa to leaflet barrages behind enemy lines were unfolded today by the house appropriations committee as it recommended a fund of $34,472,504 for operations of the Office of War Information for the next fiscal year.

How OWI hopes to beat down resistance in enemy lands was explained in detail by Elmer Davis, OWI head, during hearings on the bill.

While indicating it was impressed by OWI's contribution to the war of nerves, the committee halved

For bites, stings, itches, those pesky mosquito torments that make summer miserable, get Mexsana, formerly Mexican Heat Powder. Soothes, and relieves with a cool breezy touch and a pleasing fragrance. Clean, pleasant. Will not soil clothing. Get Mexsana.

Davis' request for a special $10,000,000 fund to be used in a new propaganda campaign.

"As offensive military action brings new territory over to the United Nations," Davis told the committee, "we shall put men on the ground operating printing presses, disseminating news, helping the army carry on combat propaganda, and hitting the enemy behind the lines with everything we can to increase the tempo of his demoralization, as has been done successfully in Tunisia."

California's cash surplus for 1942 was nearly $50,000,000.

Opponents of Food Subsidies Program May Accept Limits

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 17 — Congress, striving for a summer recess by July 10 was embroiled today in a series of arguments that held possibilities of holding the law-making body's first real vacation since the Pearl Harbor attack.

The senate appeared set for a knock-down fight on the plan of the Office of Price Administration to roll back food prices by subsidizing producers with federal money. Opponents of the program, while demonstrating a decided willingness to tangle in debate, showed an indication to temporize.

Ceiling Restrictions
Some members of the banking committee said they would be attentive to a move to restrict subsidies to a certain ceiling. Up to now, they have been talking only of an outright prohibition.

The house was engulfed in an assortment of views toward government agency appropriations. Republicans, in such numbers now that they are close to dominance, served notice privately they would shoot at the administration's requests for funds for the office of war information (OWI) and the office of price administration. It was conceded in house circles that the developing scrap over these appropriations could jeopardize the summer holiday.

Post war discussions rife as ever, brought a new touch in senate quarters. The foreign relations committee chairman, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) implied that he thought peace plans to date were inadequate. So, he said, the committee probably will have a plan of its own.

As a further indication of the mixup in congress, a joint committee handling the $75,000,000 farm appropriations bill said conferees had struggled with 134 specific differences of opinion. They called solution of 61 points progress.

With a $2,000,000,000 war department bill coming up in the house soon—greatest money-raising bill in the history of the world—the prospects for a congressional holiday were dimmed, slightly, to say the least.

Flag Dedication Service Planned

Hit By Lightning
Slight damage resulted when lightning struck the house of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ellett Monday evening. The telephone and electric service were disrupted and several holes made in the wall of the den and irregular markings made on the wall.

Eastern Polish Army Eager To Fight Its Way Back Home

BY WACLAW SIKORSKI
Polish Agency Correspondent
TEHERAN, Iran — As invasion forces are being welded into readiness for an encircling offensive against the Nazi fortress of continental Europe, the Allied high command is counting heavily on a little known fighting force already assembled on the eastern shores of the Mediterranean.

This is the Eastern Polish army, consisting of four regular infantry divisions, one armored brigade and various independent motorized units, all trained by the most modern methods and fully equipped with British and American weapons. Its total strength is 75,000 officers and men, exclusive of an important women's auxiliary service and several detachments of trained units composed of boys under 17 years of age.

Thus the Allies have in the middle east a full-sized army of soldiers at least half of whom are veteran regulars who saw action in Poland in September, 1939. They are commanded by General Wladyslaw Anders.

Organized In Russia
One unit is largely composed of survivors of the Polish Carpathian division which participated in the Tobruk and Libyan offensives. But the main body of troops was organized in Russia in the winter of 1941-42, following the Russo-Polish pact which released these former prisoners of war.

In the summer of 1942 the army was joined to the British forces in Persia to strengthen the garrison maintained there while the main British effort was being concentrated against Rommel.

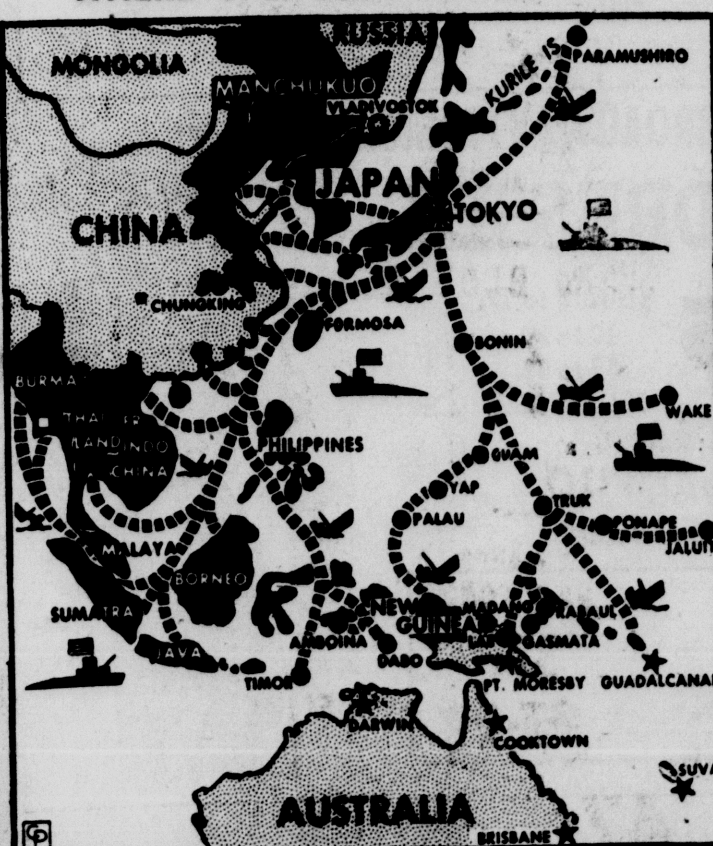

As the decisive hour approaches on the Mediterranean front, those who are laying plans for a campaign in the Balkans are mindful of the asset of having in the ranks many soldiers who escaped from the peninsula on their way to Egypt or Syria. Many spent several months enroute, and were able to learn one or more Balkan languages. A sizeable contingent of these men, of course, escaped from occupied Poland itself, penetrating gaps in the Italo-German control system following the occupation of Greece and Yugoslavia. This "underground" route, incidentally, is still functioning.

WHERE U.S. SUBS STRIKE JAPS

SUBMARINE warfare in the Atlantic may be an exclusively Axis affair, but out in the far Pacific where the Japanese must maintain their lines of supply to the distant reaches of their newly-won empire, the shoe is on the other foot. Here American U-boats are waging a war of attrition against Jap shipping with an effectiveness made evident by Tokyo's almost frantic attention to the building of new merchant shipping. U. S. submarines have accounted for 50 percent of the 360 Jap ships sunk since Pearl Harbor. The rate is rising. Map shows the sea lanes the Japanese must keep open. (International)

Stop Awhile--And Smile

TRAPPED BY SLEEP
NEW YORK, June 17—Peter Pastick, 30, might have been better off if he hadn't fallen asleep on the job.

A watchman for a Brooklyn department store found him asleep under a bench in the furniture department during the night. When police pulled him out, Pastick told them he had entered the store just before it closed the night before, spent several hours collecting merchandise and then ducked under the bench when he heard the watchman coming.

Sleep got the better of him and he was discovered.

Results: One charge of unlawful entry.

The young woman conferred with Ford, handed him a mirror, Ford flashed it into the midst of the swarm, suddenly switched the beam to the wall of nearby store. The bees followed the light away from the intersection to the building. Traffic resumed.

There Is Only One Way In Russia To Drink A Toast

(A disappearing house and a threatening stage-German are some of the results produced by vodka, Russia's national drink, says Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent, who has just spent nearly two years in Moscow.)

By EDDY GILMORE
NEW YORK, June 17—Vodka is the national firewater of Russia, but that doesn't mean that all that the Russians do is sit around and drink it, any more than Pennsylvanians just sit around and drink Pennsylvania rye.

Vodka has been associated with Russians for many, many years. The reason is very simple. Vodka is made from potatoes, the Russians have potatoes, and the Russians do not object to the taste of this drink which is made from the potato.

Russians, like Americans, are fond of banquets and dinners, and when the Russians have a banquet or a dinner there are many toasts. Right now the great majority of them are on the theme of lasting American-Russian friendship.

Better Eat Quick

There is only one way to drink a toast in Russia—with vodka.

It is much simpler than you might think. Someone proposes a toast to something, and the first thing you know you're on your feet with a glass of vodka in your hand. You then clink glasses and knock back the whole glass in one swallow. Then you sit down and eat something, and I might add, the quicker the better.

Russians will never drink without eating, which I have discovered is a very sound theory. As a very wise Russian once said: "When you drink vodka, eat tobaik cakes, they sop it up."

There have been some foreigners, who, failing to follow sound Russian advice on how to drink vodka, have lost some bitter rounds to the spirit in the little white bottle.

I once saw a very eminent European novelist at a banquet down in the Don Cossack country. He had failed to match his drinking with his eating. After the meal he asked for some air and a Red army man kindly helped him out.

This eminent author took several large draughts of it (air) and then turned to go back into the house.

chair and ran for the stage, shaking his fists and yelling, "Iemme at that German!"

Lots of soldiers would have been sore, but not the Russians. They were convinced they had been good hosts. They laughed and quietly led their noisy guest back to his seat.

On other occasions vodka makes you sad, Oh, so very sad. That's when you try to sing Russian Gypsy songs and get the words all wrong and the tune worse. And again your hosts don't get sore. They understand the spirit in the little white bottle. They've known him a long long time.

CHAPLIN MARRIES FOURTH MATE

Oona O'Neill

Charles Chaplin

Mildred Harris, Lita Gray, and Paulette Goddard. MARRIAGE OF CHARLES CHAPLIN to his fourth wife is reported in a copyrighted story from Los Angeles. The 54-year-old comedian's bride is Oona O'Neill, 18, daughter of Playwright Eugene O'Neill. Chaplin revealed that the wedding had been delayed several days by the filing of a paternity suit against him by Joan Barry. ## Charlie Chaplin, 54, Takes 18-Year Old Girl As 4th Bride

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 17.—Charles Spencer Chaplin and his fourth youthful bride, Oona O'Neill, who were married yesterday in a perfunctory three-minute ceremony that was made noteworthy principally by their efforts to elude the public eye, had apparently achieved today the seclusion they desired.

Their immediate whereabouts and their honeymoon plans remained undisclosed.

Meanwhile, in Hollywood, physicians and special guards attended 23-year-old Joan Barry, who received word of the marriage with hysterics, her attorneys said. Miss Barry, ambitious for a film career, was once under contract to Chaplin, and her mother, Mrs. Gertrude E. Barry of New York, has charged in a civil suit that Chaplin is the father of Joan's expected child.

Married Hour Later
The 54-year-old film comic and Miss O'Neill, 18, daughter of Playwright Eugene O'Neill, appeared separately at the courthouse here early yesterday morning to fill out the form necessary for a marriage license.

An hour later they were wed by Justice of the Peace Clinton P. Moore at his home in nearby Carpinteria, "without fuss, feathers or fol-de-rol," as the judge expressed it.

Harry Crocker, newspaper columnist and friend of Chaplin, and Miss Catherine Hunter, the comedian-producer's press representative, witnessed the ceremony.

Chaplin was so fidgety when he visited the courthouse, said deputy county clerk Ira Altschul, that he could hardly hold the pen and even forgot to remove his hat. He was still nervous during the marriage in the judge's home. Taking the gold ring that Crocker handed him, he thrust it on Miss O'Neill's finger and then, somewhat self-consciously, kissed her.

Shortly after the wedding party left the house Chaplin discovered that Judge Moore, 78-year-old retired Methodist minister, likewise had been a bit nervous. He had spelled Chaplin's name "Chapman" on the certificate. The comedian hastened back for a corrected copy.

Telephones In War Work Slow New Installations

CLEVELAND, June 17.—For every 80 persons with telephones in war-busy Dayton, another person is unable to obtain a receiver and must await his turn for present facilities, the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. calculated today.

In Akron, another buzzing Ohio war center, the ratio is about 90 to one. Ohio Bell made these figures public in explaining why telephones cannot be installed as fast as people desire them.

The situation is less stringent in some other cities. While there are 1,000 "hold orders" in Dayton against 81,500 telephones now in service, and 1,000 in Akron compared with 90,000 telephones, the Cleveland figure is only 2,100 against 352,000; Canton, 220 against 33,500, and Youngstown, 110 against 46,000.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start causing backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows these poisons are wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

INFANT MORTALITY RATE AT NEW LOW

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 17.—The death rate of babies born in Ohio during 1942 reached a new low, the state health department reported today.

The department's annual vital statistics report said the infant mortality rate last year was 37 deaths out of every 1,000 births. This compares with a rate of 42 in the preceding year.

In terms of the 1942 record the best in Ohio's history, the report called attention to the fact that children died at rates in the 100's prior to 1914.

The report said the state's total 1942 death rate was 11.01 persons per 1,000 population, a slight decline from 1941. It reported a total of 77,490 deaths for the year. Of these, 22,673 died of heart diseases, 9,534 of cancer, 7,081 of cerebral hemorrhage, 5,412 of nephritis, 3,250 of pneumonia, 2,856 of tuberculosis, 2,166 of diabetes and 1,785 of injuries suffered in falls.

Accidental deaths totaled 5,626 in 1942 as against 6,240 in 1941. Accidental deaths involving motor vehicles were 1,783. Home accidents killed 1,804.

Colorado's low humidity, averaging 39 per cent at Denver, is a major reason why heat and cold are not felt to extremes in the high dry Rocky Mountain state.

Doctor Sews Quilt From 1250 Neckties

(By United Press) RANDOLPH, Wis.—Dr. A. W. Jones, like most of his medical colleagues, is proud of his stitching, but few doctors have achieved success with the needle comparable to that of the Randolph village health officer.

The busy physician, who has practiced in this Dodge county hamlet for the past 41 years, has completed a patchwork quilt. The pieces used were from 1,250 neckties, no two alike, assembled from every state in the union and several foreign countries. Some were worn around the necks of national and international figures.

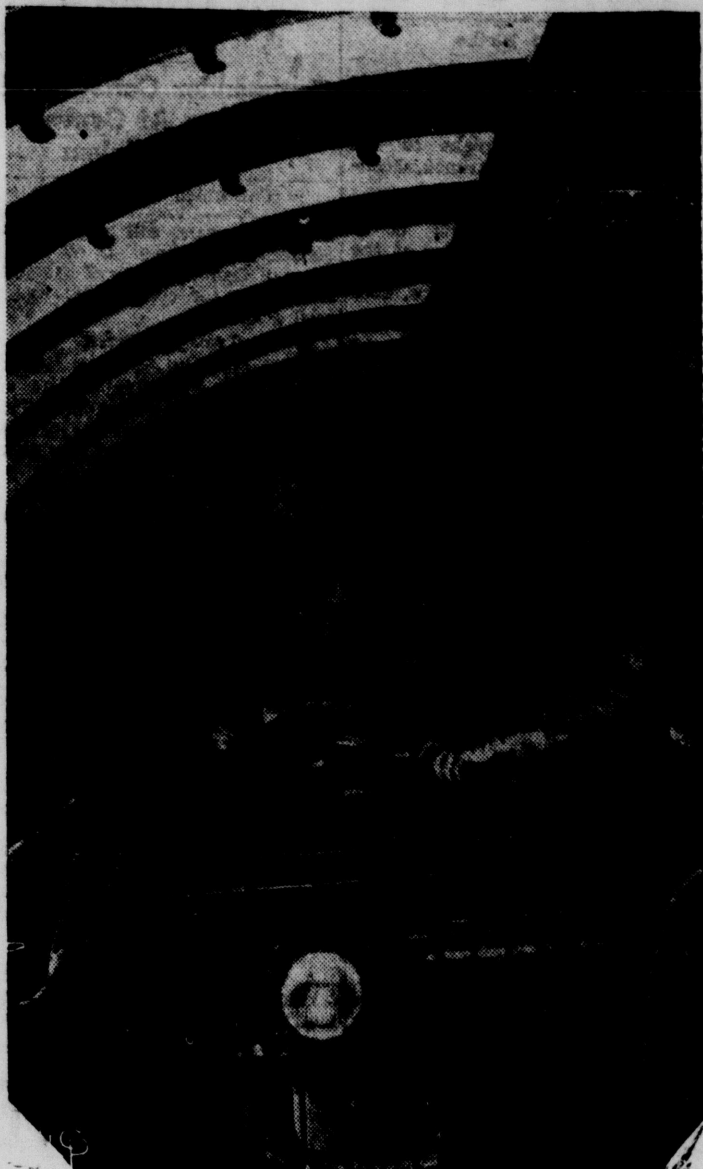

The result is no ordinary quilt! The doctor, who held the post of Randolph health officer for 25 years, put most of his leisure time on the quilt for nine months last year. Fifty spools of silk thread went into the stitching, 1,250 ties had to be opened, pressed and cut and then fitted on the full-sized bed-quilt. Dr. Jones did all the work himself.

A few star-shaped pieces signify celebrities. Among them are John Nance Garner, former vice-president of the United States, who sent a tie to the doctor when he held office; James Farley who, as postmaster general, forwarded a tie; Isidore Wartale, mayor of Banger, North Wales, Great Britain; former Gov. Julius P. Hell of Wisconsin; the Hollywood notables, Bing Crosby, Adolph Menjou, Fred MacMurray; Clifford T. Huff, sales manager for the Goodyear Rubber Co., Buenos Aires, Argentina; Clayton M. Ziemann, instructor of schools, Honolulu, Hawaii; John O. Jones, then president of the village of Randolph, and a white star representing part of the wedding tie worn by Milton M. Jones at his marriage at Racine 40 years ago.

Many Wisconsin doctors, some of whom are serving overseas with the armed forces and others who have retired to out-of-the-way spots, have their ties represented on the quilt.

Dr. Jones' hobby was an incident in a full life of service to the community. Recently he attended the birth of his 2,000th baby since 1901.

Swiss Observer Says Reich Plants Fall Behind In Work

By LOWELL BENNETT
International News Writer

LONDON—Revealing and detailed evidence of the slow-down in Germany's war industries has been given by the neutral Swiss newspaper "Die Weltwoche," a copy of which reached London recently via Lisbon.

The reports are those of a trained observer, who was permitted to tour German armament plants and who sums up his reactions by saying:

"Both neutrals and the Allies had a tendency to under-rate Germany's war potentials when hostilities began. There was a reversal of this opinion after the Wehrmacht's victories of 1940 and 1941, when the entire world began over-estimating Nazi power."

War Machine Clogged
"Today even the ordinary German civilians and armament workers are beginning to notice signs of clogging in the German war machine."

He continues: "Men and women working behind factory lathes begin to wonder when the flow of production is interrupted. . . an auxiliary factory which used to supply raw materials or parts has been hit by an enemy bomb—consequently deliveries are interrupted."

He points out that while the average workman is able to see only the small stoppages and delays affecting his own part of the work, "factory managers, industrial experts and government officials see a wider scope."

Real Figures Hidden
"If you interview such persons they will naturally never give you straight production figures because in time of war that would be high treason. . . nevertheless it is almost impossible today to meet a German manufacturer who is not worried and pessimistic."

"The production goal set for German industry last year has not been reached anywhere except in a few isolated cases. Sometimes the actual output is lagging as much as 50 per cent behind scheduled."

ule, the average shortcoming being about 30 per cent.

"When investigating the reasons for the decline in output of armaments you will find, besides everyday bottlenecks, always a transportation crisis."

Bombs Halt Transit
"The damage done by a single British or American bomb hitting a railroad track may be repaired within a few hours, but during that time it has caused an avalanche of disorganization in rail traffic."

"Imagine what happens to delivery schedules when an important railroad center is hit."

Manufacturers are now frequently complaining that their finished products lie idle for weeks because the railroads are unable to handle the transport. These difficulties have produced their effect on the supplies of Axis armies. . . . Nazi tank commanders in Russia are now most careful with their panzers.

"True, Germany still produces about 45 submarines monthly, but she has industrial installations which could produce twice that number if only the flow of materials worked without interruption. . . . In order to create a really deadly menace to Allied shipping, Germany should produce 90 submarines a month."

Walnut Supply For Gunstocks Adequate

(By United Press) FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind.—The supply of walnut in the United States, which is used exclusively in the manufacture of gunstocks, is sufficient to supply all the war needs of this country and its allies.

A survey recently completed by the American Walnut Manufacturers' association showed that the manufacture of gunstocks was well ahead of production schedules, outdistancing all other component parts in gun production.

Burdette Green, manager of the association, said the production records have been accomplished despite obstacle such as the manpower shortage and transportation difficulties.

With experience in making gunstocks during the last war, Green said, manufacturers were able to swing into war production with the least possible delay.

Attention now is centered around techniques involved in the manufacture of new-type guns for the British and in improvements in U. S. carbines, Springfield and Garands. The association runs constant tests in co-operation with the Army at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds and at Fort Zenning, Ga.

THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

She was caught up in an enchantment stronger than before. Enchantment flowed about her like the soft mists rising from the lake. Enchantment that was of the moonlight, and the perfume, and the moonlight, and the strong hands on her shoulders, and the music from the ballroom of the casino.

All her life she was to remember that tune — and the words: "I'll Never Smile Again" — that sounded so foolish, then, when she was caught up in enchantment.

At that high moment of feeling she was aware that not even their first kiss could carry her to greater heights than now in this piercingly sweet anticipation.

This is love at last, her heart cried. This is what I've been looking for, above all the hard work, and the fun, and the silly little flirtations that have meant exactly nothing to me.

Jim's hands slid from her shoulders to her arms as he drew her close, and looked into her eyes. It was as though he tried to read her very soul, thought Ann—and she responded, wordlessly, with every fiber of her being.

"You have beautiful eyes. What do they tell?" asked Jim softly.

She managed: "Perhaps—what I see in yours—"

As his lips closed down on hers, it was as though every nerve in her body tingled with joy. It was as though molten quicksilver sang in her veins. Caught up in rapture, her body felt curiously light, yet tinglingly alive from head to heel. She didn't know that she was trembling.

He whispered: "Cold?"

She whispered: "No! How could I be?" She gave a shaky little laugh. Didn't he know that she had come alive at last? Didn't he know that nothing mattered but these moments lent from heaven? That all her life had been nothing but a waiting for this hour? That this kiss was the warm, sweet flame transforming her from a girl into a palpitating, loving woman?

He kissed her again—a longer kiss this time. He held her slim, sweet body tight in his arms.

And the perfume of the jasmine wrapped them in delicious benediction. And the moon shone down on the hard, firm, the strength flowing through him, found response in her.

She slid her hands to the back of his neck, and closed her eyes. Love had come to her, waiting for her to glory. Even the leaves on the trees ceased their whispering, and the whole world seemed to stand still, breathless.

All her life long, in the years that followed, Ann was to remember this trip to paradise . . .

Never had she dreamed she was capable of such emotion as Jim awoke in her, in the deep, fragrant garden of the casino.

His kisses were more than she had ever thought kisses could be. A blend, she thought, of everything the soul of a woman could desire.

Fire—Passion—Lenderness—sweetness—belonging. She felt, as she responded with her lips, her heart, that forever they would bind him to her . . .

Words were not necessary, she thought. But in a moment he would tell her that he loved her.

The way of a man with a maid. What she had been born for—she knew it now—was love—his love!

And she was glad to see the soul that in her life, she had done nothing of which she need be ashamed. For, no matter what temptations had come to her, she had withstood them, keeping herself unsullied in body and soul.

Men had fallen in love with her easily—or what passed for love—but she had held her head proudly and high.

Then suddenly she was aware that Jim had released his hold—that he was unloosing her arms from about him—was thrusting her from him—leaving her breathless and shaken.

"Why do you do that?" she whispered. "Don't you—mean it at all?"

He laughed hoarsely. He said a strange thing, a dreadful thing. He said slowly but clearly: "Lovely—little—liar!"

He had struck her across the face, she could not have been more shocked and stunned.

"Lovely—little—liar!" he repeated. The words fell on her ears like the lash of a whip.

"How dare you?" she gasped.

"But I did. I took your dare! You can't blame me for being—human? Didn't I warn you you were lovely? Headly like the jasmine? And you know it!" he told her.

"You mean—?" Her face was crimson now not passion-laden any more.

I mean that you expected something like this to happen when you asked me to come out into the garden. You did, didn't you?"

She summoned all her strength not to burst into tears. She faced him, head held high. Her dream was shattered. The trailing clouds of glory in which she had been caught up, were gone, never to return. All that was left her was her pride—or the tattered semblance of it—but she'd keep those tatters flying—not let him see her painful hurt.

"The episode was as amusing to me as it was to you!" Could that be her own laugh? It sounded like a cackle. In a moment, unless she checked it, it would rise to hysteria—and she'd die of shame if she broke down!

He bowed with an ironical little smile.

"I gathered it was a mood—following the cocktails," he told her.

"How dare you?" she flashed, forgetting her role. His only feeling for her had been one of physical attraction. He thought her cheap, easy, out for counterfeit sensation. He had called her "Lovely little liar" because he thought her emotion was merely of the senses, and because he thought something more—something equally hateful and degrading—that she was partner to Hank in tricky gambling! Under his apparent acceptance of her explanations, he'd still thought that what she had told him was untrue!

He said coolly: "I'm sorry if you're upset, but I—"

"She fairly shouted: 'No! A man like you couldn't upset me! I think you're a cad, that's what!' and with all her force she slapped him across the face, and whirled off into the casino."

Julia was with Vince in the bar, when Ann wept in.

"Where have you been, my pretty pet?" asked Julia amiably, for she was enjoying her evening.

"Never mind. Get on your things, Julia," Ann said tartly. "We're going home."

Julia opened her brown eyes wide. She said coldly: "If that's your idea, you've got another thing coming dear duchess! The night is young yet, and I'm seeing it through."

"Courage you'll stay, Goshush!" mumbled Vince, alongside.

Ann ignored him. She repeated sharply: "We're going home, Julia."

"Not on your young life we aren't! Not I!" Julia flung back.

"And what's more, I think it's disgustingly selfish of you wanting to deprive your hard-working sister of the few, brief pleasures she can snatch over the weekends! You tried to stop me going to dinner on Vince's yacht, because your High-and-Mightiness was tired! Tired my eye! You'd know what fatigue meant if you had to slave all week waiting hand and foot on my passengers on the plane!"

"But I tell you—" began Ann.

"Nix on that! But I'll tell you where you get off, my spoiled and beautiful sister! This is one time I'll do as I please! I was decent enough to send for you to join the party, guessing you were in one of your moods and regretting your obstinacy! And what happens when you arrive? Instead of thanking me you try a second time to queer my evening and deprive me of my few moments of fun, because you're feeling bored and snooty!" Julia accused her.

Hurt to the quick Ann turned to Vince. "Then will you take me home, please?" She couldn't bear the thought of facing Jim after what had happened in the garden—and oh! how she loathed this casino now!

Julia said in a sharp, low tone: "Don't be a complete fool! Can't you see he's absolutely plastered? That he's in no condition to drive a car?"

But Ann was beyond caring about that. She simply had to get away! As a friend greeted her sister, Ann hurried out of the bar, with Vince following. He went outside.

It was then Ann encountered Hank. Seeing the storm clouds on her lovely face he tried to carry it off airily, with "Ah! Unscotored?"

"Don't stall! You behaved abominably! You passed those chips to me because you must have seen the detective and the couple looking at you! You made me the goat for your dishonesty, and then you sneaked off, leaving me to face the music!" she furiously accused Hank.

A nasty gleam came into the man's blue eyes. His red lips twisted. "But it was sweet music!" he said. "I saw you go out in the garden with dear Jim! Songs without words, no doubt? And why didn't you tell me, when I offered you half of my winnings, that you were to get all of his too?" he inquired, sauntering.

She all but stamped her foot. "He only said that to get out of a jam!"

"Then I trust that you repaid him? Either with his winnings, or in kind?" Hank suggested impudently.

"You are insufferable!" I despise you!" Half blinded with tears, she ran from the building to join Vince outside.

WASTE IN WARTIME IS A CRIME—Don't waste electricity just because it isn't rationed!

HOW TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR ELECTRIC RANGE

Never leave heating elements on "high" longer than necessary. All switches should be "off" when cleaning the range and use a damp cloth. Keep heating units and metal parts clean to prevent rusting and corroding. Remove spilled foods and stains immediately from the range surface. Food spilled on open units should be burned off. Never use a stiff brush, fork, etc., as you may damage the coils.

Even with the best of care, parts of appliances will wear. If any of your appliances are in need of repair, phone a competent electrician now. He may be delayed in obtaining parts, but will give you the best service he can under wartime conditions.
